nowgen
A Centre for Genetics in Healthcare
NIHR Manchester Biomedical Research Centre

Familial Breast Cancer Study Day

21 September 2010

This training day focuses on the role of primary and secondary care in delivering familial breast cancer services as outlined by NICE guidance.

The programme provides a series of talks by expert professionals from the fields of research and current clinical practice, and also includes a talk from the patient's perspective.

The talks will be followed by an interactive session with discussion of the topics covered.

Course details overleaf

For more information, please contact:

Kate Mulryan,
Professional Training Officer
email: kate.mulryan@cmft.nhs.uk
tel: 0161 276 5956

Cost including lunch & refreshments: £165.00

Booking information:
Tel: 0161 276 5956
Email: bookings@nowgen.org.uk
Online: www.nowgen.org.uk/nowgen/events

Nowgen Training

Nowgen, part of the National Institute for Health Research Manchester Biomedical Research Centre, a partnership between:

NHS National Institute for Health Research
MANCHESTER 1824 The University of Manchester
Central Manchester University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust

Familial Breast Cancer Study Day

21 September 2010

The Nowgen Centre,
29 Grafton Street,
Manchester M13 9WU

Course Details

- Epidemiology of breast cancer
- The role of primary care in management of 'at risk' women
- Risk estimation
- The hereditary breast cancer genes (BRCA 1& 2, p53)
- The process of genetic testing for breast cancer
- The psychological consequences of being at risk / having tests
- Update on mammographic screening and MRI
- Patient choices: preventative surgery and breast cancer family history clinics

nowgen
A Centre for Genetics in Healthcare

W: www.nowgen.org.uk
E: bookings@nowgen.org.uk

T: +44 (0) 161 276 5956
F: +44 (0) 161 276 4058

The Nowgen Centre
29 Grafton Street, Manchester
M13 9WU

Training

Facilities

Public Engagement & Schools

Research & Innovation