Managing Safely Training Course

HSE Solutions specialise in Health and Safety Training for business and industry. We have teamed up with the Institute of Occupational Safety & Health (IOSH) to deliver the IOSH Managing Safely Training Course.

The course is specifically designed for managers, supervisors or for anyone with a health and safety responsibility in any sector, and is designed to get you acquainted with the practical actions you need to take to handle health and safety in your organisation.

Managing Safely Covers:

Introducing managing safely - the case for managing safety in the workplace

Assessing risks - interactive exercise carrying out a series of risk assessments

Controlling risks - the best techniques for controlling risks and how to choose the right method

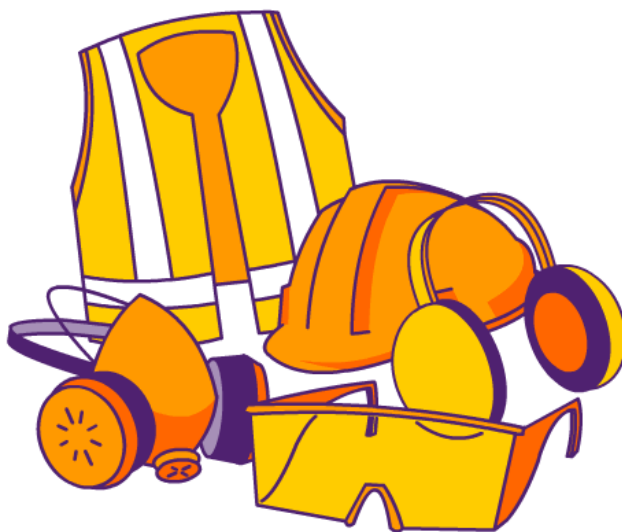

Understanding your responsibilities - the demands of the law and the introduction of safety management systems

Identifying hazards - identification of the main hazards found in any organisation, including entrances & exits, work traffic, bullying, stress, noise, slips, trips & falls and manual handling

Investigating accidents and incidents - why things go wrong and how to carry out an investigation when they do

Measuring performance - how checking performance can improve health and safety, including practical techniques such as auditing

Protecting our environment - how managers can get involved in reducing environmental impacts

What does the organisation get out of it?

- Nationally recognised and respected certificate
- Training controlled by the Chartered Body for Health & Safety Professionals
